

Environmental, Health and Safety Operating Principles

- No job or activity is worth risking injury
- All injuries, illnesses and environmental incidents are preventable
- Working safely and in an environmentally responsible manner is a condition of employment
- Each of us is responsible for the safe behaviour of ourselves and others
- Environmental, Health and Safety is led by senior management, implemented by line management, with each level accountable to the one above and responsible for the one below
- We will design and integrate Environmental, Health and Safety into our facilities and into our management process
- All employees will be provided with the necessary knowledge, skills and abilities to work safely
- Strong Environmental, Health and Safety performance is good business
